My Blessings to all here in the Coachella Valley during this time of change and growth. We are all taking time to reflect on the safety and well-being of our Family and Friends during this upsetting change to lifestyle and Personal Recovery.

The office hours have been reduced to 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM through the month of April, to serve the local customers needing books and supplies for their Sponsees and Sponsors. As usual, we continue to have live Alcoholics answering the phone 24/7 throughout, not only with the evening Teleservice volunteers, but the regular evening office volunteers will take their shifts remotely by phone. The office has had regular disinfectant routines with the many disinfectant wipes containers placed around the store, and a 6' mark on the floor to allow distancing when customers come in, many of whom are picking up literature relevant to their zoom meeting format.

Please note the updated home page of our website that now includes, not only updates from AA World Service Office during this crisis, but a list of Coachella Valley hosted Zoom Meetings, a list of Online Intergroup nation wide digital meetings as well as a list of Telephone meetings available to stay in touch with other Alcoholics during this closure of face-to-face meetings. If you haven't read it lately, the Forward to the 4th Edition of our Big Book, foretold the use of computers being now available for modem-to-modem connections for Alcoholics around the world 19 years ago when it was published. It is only through a crisis of this magnitude that we are now relying on such an option that is so vital for us to maintain a connection in order to stay sober together, and preserve this 85 year old treatment for Alcoholism, that is the only treatment that has outlived its founders using the preservation technics of our 12 Traditions and 12 Concepts of World Service, unique to our Fellowship.

The big news is we have finalized the negotiations with the construction being completed last week to allow our move from suite 134 to 107 this weekend. The office will be closed then, April 4th and 5th. Our new suite 107 is located in the south parking lot of the Esplanade Plaza, close to Nicolino's restaurant, in the back of that parking lot. The landlord and property managers have been very helpful and supportive in the negotiations, and we are looking forward to another long stay in this beautiful location. Please visit us soon, presuming the stay-at-home recommendation is lifted in the near future, of course. The new suite is the same size and has been renovated to match the quality we have had. The reason for our move was to accommodate the physical therapy business next door, who's only option to expand is the suite we have had at 134. As our lease was up for renewal, and they made it very lucrative to do so, this move insures our ability to stay here for the next 5 to 10 years at this lucrative location in the Coachella Valley, and the new lease had many advantages that would not have been possible without this accommodation for our neighbors and the landlord.

With so many inquiries to Central Office regarding how to keep the 7th Tradition. Please note the following:

Many Zoom Meetings are beginning to collect contributions using “Venmo” which can then pay for the Zoom subscription and distribute to various arms of service. If you are attending Zoom meetings that are not collecting for distribution, please consider supporting this office individually. We have “Venmo” and “PayPal” links on our Homepage for direct digital payment. Please consider this to help us retain as much of our Prudent Reserve as we can during this time when regular meetings are not sending any support. Of course, regular checks can be sent via Postal Mail as well.

Step Four

Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

I was directed to read from our Big Book of A.A. On pages 64 - 68, among other things I read, "... to be rid of the things in ourselves which had been blocking us." "Searched out the flaws in our make-up which caused our failure. This sounded like a good thing to do. I could write down my resentments, list the people and institutions with whom I was angry. There were plenty of things that interfered with my life, or at least some things, and people which interfered plenty with my life. It was very apparent to me that at least some of the world and its people were very, very wrong towards me. I could be thorough and honest.

To be freed from anger and resentments – oh yes, this was the path for me! I was quite sure that some of those who had wronged me were sick and of course I would want to be helpful to a sick man. Perhaps I could put out of my mind the wrongs others had done. And I think I often have looked for my own mistakes. Yes, there have been times that I have been selfish, dishonest, self-seeking or frightened. And though a situation had not been entirely my fault, I was sure it was mostly not my fault, it was almost always completely his or her fault. Okay, so, if I disregard the other person entirely, I think I would not have been hurt. What do you mean, where was I to blame? They were to blame, not me! None of this was my fault. I am not some mean monster chasing down and devouring some innocent person.

Okay, take it easy. With a little reassurance from my sponsor, I could slow down a little. Maybe, if I could take a look way back to where it started, before I got hurt. Why would I put myself in a position to get hurt? I was just trying to do what was normal in life to get what I needed. Right? Well, okay then. It started out that I just needed some - just the same as everybody. Or maybe that I was kind of afraid that - just like most people. This is just what people do to get the basic necessities of life, right? We all go after what we need just like I did. Wait a minute. You mean that these are really just self-seeking actions and that I put myself in a position to get hurt? That was quite the opposite of what I was after. Oh, so this is the stuff that interferes with my peace and contentment? Fear and worry and manipulating people and situations to get the things that I need: things everybody needs – like love, respect and success in work, family and social situations. I wasn't even looking for great wealth or fame. But in my quest for a fulfilling life was it really all about what I could get for myself?

After I hit bottom, I realized that I had failed miserably and discovered that my way was not the way of success. I saw that I had to admit that my way didn't work and I should possibly consider not doing it my way. Then I read that there is a better way, to trust God and not myself. It says that I am in the world to play the role that He assigns. Maybe I should consider that I have misunderstood this concept as well. Now I am at a starting point: recognizing that I need a way to have my needs met, not by getting but by giving. I still don't quite grasp the whole scope of it yet, but I'm willing to believe.

I am finally and slowly starting down the path of a life well lived. I am discovering that every tiny step is well rewarded. In the long months since the beginning of this discovery, when I made a searching and fearless moral inventory, I have begun to step out in faith, believing that by giving I will receive.

At The Monday Night Meeting Of Chickens With

Concept Four

Throughout our Conference structure, we ought to maintain at all responsible levels a traditional “Right of Participation,” taking care that each classification or group of our world servants shall be allowed a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must discharge.

The principle of “Right of Participation” is built into the General Service Conference through the Conference Charter. Voting members include not only delegates, but also the trustees, and the directors and staff members of AA World Services (i.e., G.S.O.) and the AA Grapevine.

In the same way the boards of these two operating entities include not only trustees, but also non-trustee directors and paid administrators and staff members.

The chairperson of the General Service Board appoints non-trustee members to the standing committees in order to have the advantage of their expertise, and staff members serve as committee secretaries. “There are no ‘superiors,’ no ‘inferiors,’ and no ‘advisers.’” New trustees on the General Service Board and new directors of the A.A.W.S. and Grapevine boards are sometimes surprised to see paid executives, staff members, and outside accountants attending the board meetings. They are invited because of A.A.’s “Right of Participation.” Thus the trustees and directors “are put into direct communication with these workers who...feel wanted and needed. Although they do not vote, these workers may freely participate.”

There is a spiritual reason for the “Right of Participation.” All of us desire to belong. In A.A., no members are “second class.” The “Right of Participation” therefore reinforces Tradition Two, that no member is placed in “ultimate authority” over another. We perform our service tasks better “when we are sure we belong-when our ‘participation’ assures us we are truly the ‘trusted servants’ described in Tradition Two.”

Tradition Four

Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or A.A. as a whole.

When reading Tradition Four in the 12 and 12 of Alcoholics Anonymous, specifically the story on pages 147-149, it is made clear why this tradition was created and how vital it is in the constant evolution of the AA program.

Though the basic principles of the program are unchanging, the need for individual meetings to be able to meld themselves into a working order is ever present. We of Alcoholics Anonymous are not perfect, a concept that I suppose at certain times in our lives was a little difficult to grasp, and through this tradition we allow ourselves the option to make mistakes and to correct them.

Through the power of the group and the group conscience, individuals are able to present input and to help shape their individual meetings. A strong Central Office and General Service Board are essential to the workings of AA, but the autonomy of the individual meeting is the true essence of Alcoholics Anonymous and its ability to be self sufficient.

The Twelve Steps in Plain English

1. Alcohol will kill me.
2. There's a power that wants me to live.
3. Do I want to live or die? (if you want to die, stop here).
4. Write about how I got where I am.
5. Tell another person all about me (let god listen).
6. Want to change.
7. Ask a power greater than me to help me change.
8. Write down who I've hurt.
9. Fix what I can without hurting anyone else.
10. Accept that I'm human and will screw up. Fix it immediately.
11. Ask a power greater than me to show me how to live.
12. Keep doing 1 through 11 and pass it on.

I have found that when I work with others, my problems become smaller . . . I think that's because when I talk with my sponsees, and share my experience with what they are walking through, I have put their problems on the front burner, and my problems get put on the back burner --- then I talk with someone else, and in talking, their problems go on the front burner, so the previous sponsees have to go to the back burner . . . all of a sudden, my problems have NO burners, and it's amazing how they can just die away!

"Progress not perfection." It's a statement not an excuse.

We were talking about 'restraint of tongue and pen' and someone read that they had read in the Grapevine that with the increase in texting that perhaps needs to be updated to add 'restraint of thumb and send'.

It's not that surprising that there is a power greater than me --- since I was taken down by a beverage.

Step Four

Tradition Four

Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or A.A. as a whole.

Concept Four

At all responsible levels, we ought to maintain a traditional "Right of Participation," allowing a voting representation in reasonable proportion to the responsibility that each must discharge.

Principle FOUR

Honesty -

uprightness and fairness: truthfulness, sincerity, or frankness; freedom from deceit or fraud.

Traditions Checklist

Tradition Four: Each group should be autonomous except in matters affecting other groups or AA as a whole.

1. Do I insist that there are only a few right ways of doing things in AA?
2. Does my group always consider the welfare of the rest of AA? Of nearby groups? Of Loners in Alaska? Of Internationalists miles from port? Of a group in Rome or El Salvador?
3. Do I put down other members' behavior when it is different from mine, or do I learn from it?
4. Do I always bear in mind that, to those outsiders who know I am in AA, I may to some extent represent our entire beloved Fellowship?
5. Am I willing to help a newcomer go to any lengths—his lengths, not mine—to stay sober?
6. Do I share my knowledge of AA tools with other members who may not have heard of them?

At the Expense of Others

"I'm an alcoholic--and a drug addict."

"I have to say this--for me."

"I know this is a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous but. . ."

I used to think I had to share about my drug use. After all, AA teaches us to be rigorously honest, doesn't it? And as a younger person in AA, I was different than a lot of the older, "pure" alcoholics, wasn't I? Nobody is going to tell me what to say. Nobody did, either. (A couple of old-timers took me aside after the meetings to talk about this, but I dismissed them.)

One night, I was talking in the parking lot after a meeting of my home group. As the people cleared out, I realized there were just two of us left--myself and a newcomer. He was in his sixties. We got to talking and he actually seemed to be listening to me! I really felt amazed that a man old enough to be my grandfather would listen to me about anything, and especially about AA.

The meeting that night had been on Step One and many people, including me, recalled their use of drugs (some in great detail). This man and I began to talk about the meeting and then he dropped a bombshell on me. He didn't think he qualified to be an alcoholic because he hadn't used any drugs! Here was a man who drank for more years than I have been alive (most of them, by his account, alcoholically), yet he didn't feel like he belonged in AA. And we were supposedly talking about alcoholism!

Well, I sputtered and stammered for a while and I finally convinced him that the only requirement for membership was a desire to stop drinking and that there were no requirements for drug use involved. Thank God he is still sober.

Later that night, I really began to question myself and the message I was carrying. Sure, it was important that I qualified and identified myself, but were the details worth it at the possible expense of others? I realized I should stick to alcohol and alcoholism in order to keep the door wide open, not make it more narrow. If even one person gets the wrong idea and feels they don't belong, that is one too many. Besides, I had been sober for a while and I knew what I was.

I guess I started to think just a little more about other people than I did about myself. So that's why some groups are so concerned about AA's singleness of purpose--some groups in my area even read a statement of singleness of purpose before their meetings. It isn't just to be tedious and nitpicky and to "bust chops," especially the chops of young people. It is so all alcoholics can feel that they belong once they get to AA.

What does Central Office Do for Me???

1. We carry the message to the still suffering alcoholic via telephone calls and 12-step work
2. Insure a steady supply of literature for our groups at an attractive price.
3. Provide a telephone contact service for AA meeting information and other information such as recovery places, other 12-step contact information, other Central Office numbers, etc.
4. Publish a monthly newsletter by and for our local fellowship with local events and articles by local AA members on the Steps, Traditions and Concepts.
5. Assist in forming new groups or help existing groups in carrying out our purpose
6. Help in any way to carry out the sole purpose of Alcoholics Anonymous.
7. Attempt to unify our efforts to achieve this purpose
